Contemplative Service – Buddhist Teachings

Rev. Peter Connolly

Every Sunday from 9:00 AM to 9:50 AM in the Channing Sanctuary

Speaking of Obscenity

Rev. Peter Connolly

11 AM on Sunday, February 7 | 5th week of Chalice

If there is such a thing as “the sacred,” it follows that there must be such a thing as “the obscene.” Or does it? What constitutes obscenity for Unitarian Universalists in Bowling Green?

Winter 2016 Congregational Meeting after the service.

Who Do You Love?

Rev. Peter Connolly

11 AM on Sunday, February 14 | 6th week of Chalice

What a useful, yet ambiguous, word “love” is! We seem to mean all kinds of things by it. On this Valentine's Day Sunday, we'll explore some of the dimensions of just what we mean when say the word “love.”

Black Lives Matter. All Lives Matter.

Rev. Peter Connolly

11 AM on Sunday, February 21 | 7th week of Chalice

The Black Lives Matter movement has focused national attention on the disparity between the ways that black and white suspects are treated by law enforcement. It has also created a predictable backlash. Today, we will look into the controversy and consider our role as religious liberals called to “actively work to improve our society.”

Do you have information you would like announced during a service?

-Use the online form uubgky.org/contact-us/sharingnews

-Email announcements@uubgky.org before 9 PM on Saturday.

-Put a card in the basket on the Sign-Up table before 10:55 AM on Sunday.

Minister's Message

Ours is a busy church, very busy for a church of our size. In various ways, we continue to serve out our mission to care for one another, to encourage spiritual growth, and to actively work to improve our society and the environment. Here is an update on some of the ways we remain active in seeking to fulfill our mission.

Our Caring Committee is blessed by the dedicated leadership of David Wellman and Roxanne Spencer. We recently have committed to meeting more regularly (monthly, rather than two or three times a year). We are always in need of folks to help out with visiting those who are isolated from others or hospitalized or otherwise incapacitated, with preparing and delivering meals for those who may have short-term needs, and anyone who can help in any way. Please let David or Roxanne or me know if you can help with any of these things, whether or not you have time to actually join the committee.

Spirituality is expressed in many different ways. UUCBG offers two meditation groups, a Zen Gathering, yoga, a creative arts group, and an Earth Circle, as well as religious exploration opportunities for all ages. We also have multigenerational services throughout the year.

Our 9:00 o'clock Sunday morning Contemplative Service has entered its third year. Until services were canceled because of the recent snowstorm, we met for 107 successive Sundays, which is quite remarkable, considering that I was away for four months' sabbatical in 2015. We continue to study and practice Buddhist teachings on mindfulness as well as other Buddhist concepts such as meditation, the five training precepts, inquiry and observation, the five hindrances, the seven factors of enlightenment, Buddhist psychology, and karma. It is a time of centering, thoughtful discussion and sharing personal experiences. I'm grateful to have that time, myself, on a Sunday morning, and grateful for the faithful attendance of others who find their spiritual growth enhanced in this way.

We've been fortunate in this church to continue to have wonderful Sunday services when guests and lay members are speaking. Nancy Garrett shared "The Faces on Money" and introduced the Guest at Your Table program. It was enlightening to learn about the five pillars of Islam in December when Dr. Nagy Morsi, President of the Islamic Center of Bowling Green, made his presentation. Liza Kelly, with help from husband Jeremy and special guests, provided us with a wonderful service of music, song and "opening the doorway to other religions" with her service, "Focus and Connection: Sacred Music and World Religions."

We've once again been celebrating Chalica over the first seven Sundays of the year. I addressed the first principle with my intent to do what I can to see that an interfaith ministerial association be established in Bowling Green. I have met with both Imam Sedin Agic and Rev. Megan Huston of First Christian (Disciples of Christ) Church. Both are enthusiastic about the idea. I have contacted two other ministers in town who have expressed support in the past. I will keep you apprised of developments. Thank you to Sandi Joiner, Jai Burchett, and Kerry Kenady for modeling ways in which we can live out the second, third, and fourth principles.

In terms of "actively working to improve our society," our Social Justice Action Committee (SJAC) is making a commitment to be present in the larger community at least once a month in 2016. In January, some of us participated in the symbolic march from the courthouse to the State Street Baptist Church; others attended the MLK program there. Still others attended the annual MLK breakfast.

In February, several of us will be going to Frankfort on the 17th for a rally in support of a statewide Fairness ordinance. We'll be carpooling to Frankfort; if you'd like to join us, please let me know.

In March, church members will be attending and helping to support the Interfaith Dialogue on Earthcare on the 18th and 19th. Registration forms and a schedule of events are posted on our "Community" bulletin board. Registration is free and the program is varied. Attendees are encouraged to bring a dish for a community potluck. A great way to meet like-minded neighbors!

Speaking of "Earthcare," our Ecological Land Ministry is now housed under Buildings and Grounds, rather than SJAC. Jan Garrett is still the contact person. As the weather warms, more projects will be in the works.

Thank you to all the dedicated members who serve the mission of this church.

Join your energy to ours as we continue to grow into the church that we aspire to be!

Blessings abounding! See you in church.

CONGREGATIONAL NEWS

Board Highlights

At their January business meeting, the Board took the following actions:

- Nominated five people to be ushers during the Sunday Service. Their names will be sent to the Sunday Service Committee.
- Approved SJAC's recommendation that UUCBG vote "yes" in the UUA poll about whether the four new Congregational Study/Action Issues should be admitted to UUA 2016 General Assembly's agenda.
- Agreed to have the final board minutes submitted to the church office by 9 AM on the Monday after the Board meeting.
- Voted to have the UUA Theme installed on our church website.
- Voted to purchase an Optoma W316ST projector (cost ~$900) provided it meets our needs.
- Because Rev. Peter Connolly had changed his insurance to help with our budget, the board voted to reimburse him $664.37 for health care insurance expenses during the period of January 2016 through June 2016. This amount represents the church and the minister splitting 50/50 the additional expenses for a more suitable health care plan, provided one can be obtained.
- Reviewed proposed policies. See the Committee sections for details on approved policies. A record of church policies is kept at the church office and is available to all members. Policies are also being posted on our website.

Is Church Cancelled? How can I tell?

When church activities are cancelled, we use email, phone, Facebook post, and our website to spread the news. We also change the message on our answering machine, and we send an announcement to WBKO Polar Report. The decision to close due to weather is usually made no later than 7:30 on Sunday morning.

Policy on Emergency Closure

(approved by the Board Sep. 2015)

"The Board President and the Minister shall consult with each other, and with input from the Chair of Buildings and Grounds Committee and/or the Chair of Sunday Services Committee, make the decision whether to cancel the service (and usually other activities on Sunday morning) due to weather, impassable roads, or emergency.

"If the Minister or the President is not available, then the Chair of the Sunday Services Committee and/or the Vice President (or other Director) shall consult and decide. In the rare event that other people can't be reached in a timely fashion, the Minister or a Director has the authority to cancel on their own."

WE ARE A CARING COMMUNITY

Caring

Join a Caring Team! — If you would like to help people in our congregation who need assistance, such as rides to the doctor, errands run, visits, help with meals, etc., then please let the Caring Committee members know. The Caring Committee would also like to hear from those who already provide assistance to others so they can be appropriately recognized.

Request Assistance or Care — If you are in need of assistance from us or pastoral care from Rev. Connolly, call David Wellman or Roxanne Spencer, email caring@uubgky.org, or use the form at uubgky.org/contact-us/form_pastoral.

Sharing your Joys & Concerns — The Caring Committee has introduced index cards in neon yellow and orange to indicate either a Joy or a Concern. Church members, friends, and visitors are encouraged to fill out Joy and/or Concern cards and place them in the basket near the bulletin board before 10:55 AM on Sundays. You can also email caring@uubgky.org, or use our online form uubgky.org/contact-us/joys_concerns

The cards will be read aloud from the pulpit by one of the Caring Committee members.

Thank you, The Caring Committee (caring@uubgky.org)

The Caring Committee meets monthly on 3rd Tuesdays at 5:30 PM.

Nonviolent Communication

Sharing Your Story

By Zee Evelsizer, Sunday Services Committee

Do you have a story to tell? Perhaps a significant milestone along your personal spiritual journey, some advice that has changed your life, or someone who has inspired you?

As part of our church's shared ministry, we invite members and friends to take a turn at the pulpit and share their stories with the congregation.

Does this sound intriguing—but maybe a little scary? We can help with that! Our workshop series on "How to Write and Deliver a Sermon" will help you polish your ideas and gain the confidence to present them.

Roxanne Spencer, who took the course in 2015, says: "I appreciated the teamwork, positive critiques, and mutual support from the other members. The process of developing, researching, writing, and refining a sermon was broken down into very manageable chunks in this process." She put that knowledge to excellent use when she shared her sermon "Where We Are From" with the congregation on August 16.

The course meets for six sessions of two hours each, meeting every other week. It will start in February or March. This course is a chance to deepen connections and learn skills that are useful in many areas of life

A sign-up sheet is on the table in the Olympia Brown Lobby. For more information, contact Janeen Grohsmeyer or Susan Webb.

Earth Circle

Imbolc

On Saturday, January 30, members of Earth Circle held a celebration of Imbolc, which occurs halfway between the winter solstice and the first day of spring. Delicious oatcakes were enjoyed!

Tarot

From 6:30–8:30 PM on Friday, February 12, Earth Circle will meet on the ground floor of the Fellowship Hall. Please enter through the door near the kitchen and then go down the stairs.

We will be discussing the Tarot, so please bring your decks, books, and whatever material you would like to share with us. We look forward to seeing you, learning and sharing together!

Creative Arts Expression

By Roxanne Spencer

The Creative Arts Expression Group usually meets on the first Sunday of each month, starting around 12:30 or so, in the Fellowship Hall. We will not meet during February, but we will resume again on Sunday, March 6.

Activities have included reading original poems and prose, sharing inspiring prose and poems from favorite authors, free writing and free drawing, and coloring books for adult activities. All are welcome to join us, and ideas for creative activities are also welcome!

Religious Exploration

Adult Forum – Sacred Texts of the World

The Adult Forum meets every Sunday from 9:50–10:50 AM in the Emerson Room at the UU Church. Please arrive on time so we can “check in” with each other, watch the DVD, and still have time for discussion.

Judaism – Five Books of Torah

9:50 AM on February 7, 2016

The word Torah can best be translated as “instruction” or “teaching”. The Torah can also be referred to as the Chumash (derived from the Hebrew word for “five”) or the Pentateuch (Greek for “five books”). The five books are Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy.

The book of Genesis begins with 11 chapters about the early history of the world and humanity. In chapter 12, the focus shifts to Abraham and extending to his descendants, the Hebrews or Israelites (named after Abraham’s grandson, Israel). The book of Exodus is the story of Moses leading the Israelites from slavery in Egypt. Leading the people through the desert to Mt. Sinai, Moses receives commandments from God – not only the Ten Commandments but also laws regarding personal injuries, property rights, festivals, and so on.

This book of Leviticus is composed almost entirely of religious regulations for the Israelites. In the book of Numbers, God condemns the Israelites to wander for 40 years in the wilderness but sustains them by providing the miraculous food manna. The last book of the Torah, Deuteronomy, consists of three speeches given by Moses to the Israelites on the plains of Moab shortly before his death and their long-awaited entry into the Promised Land.

For more than 2,000 years, Jews assumed that the Torah was revealed by God to Moses, who wrote it all down. The Torah (and later the Prophets) was divided into portions so that the whole text could be read over a year in Sabbath services. The Torah is encountered in ritual and worship and also studied intensely.

During the Enlightenment, scholars of ancient languages and documents began to apply the methods used in studying other ancient texts to the Bible.

Judaism – Prophets and Writing

9:50 AM on February 14, 2016

The Prophet section focuses on the political and religious history of Israel. The book of Joshua records the conquest of the Promised Land. However, the book of Judges shows this conquest to have not been as decisive as portrayed in Joshua. The books of Samuel and Kings narrate the rise and fall of the monarchy: Saul, David, and Solomon. The Assyrians conquered Israel (the northern part of the kingdom) in 722 BCE, and Babylonians conquered the southern part, Judah, in 586 BCE.

The Later Prophets detail God’s expectations for the Israelites and where they fall short. The book of Isaiah was composed by several writers beginning in the 8th century BCE, Jeremiah was written at the time of the fall of Judah, and Ezekiel was written during the Exile in Babylon. The 12 Minor Prophets come in roughly chronological order, from Hosea in the 8th century to Malachi in the 5th.

The diverse and broad-reaching Writings include the stories of foreigners Job and Ruth; the book of Proverbs, which offers universal wisdom that crosses religious and ethnic boundaries; and erotic love poetry in the Song of Songs. The author of Ecclesiastes wonders if life is pointless, and the book of Daniel veers into strange apocalyptic prophecies. The Psalms praise God and his creation. The final books—Ezra-Nehemiah and Chronicles—narrate the story of Israel until about 400 BCE.

At least four themes can be discerned in the Prophets and Writings: ethical monotheism, the mission and destiny of Israel, God’s loving kindness, and a deep sense of humanity.

Come to the Forum and find out more!

Social Justice Action

America's Original Sin

By Jan Garrett

I strongly recommend Jim Wallis' new book, America's Original Sin: Racism, White Privilege, and the Bridge to a New America. It's relatively brief and very wise, reflecting Wallis' decades of experience and the Sojourners' community built up around a certain kind of racial and social justice work.

The workshop continues on Saturday, March 19, from 8 AM to 2 PM at Christ Episcopal Church. Fr. Andrew Garner of St. Joseph's Catholic Church and School will lead a discussion of Pope Francis's encyclical Care for Our Common Home.

Registration forms and a schedule of events are posted on our "Community" bulletin board. Registration is free and the program is varied. Attendees are encouraged to bring a dish for a community potluck. It's a great way to meet like-minded neighbors!

Where does your garden grow?

To help us keep track of what's where, the different gardens on our campus have been given names.

Notebooks for each of the gardening areas are located in the Storage Room (aka the old library). We'll be using the notebooks to keep track of what and when we plant. Each notebook will have pictures and descriptions of the plants, so that we can all learn what they look like in various stages and what they need.

Finance

Finances in Good Shape

From the Board Minutes

Board Treasurer Kerry Kenady reports that our financial system is now almost fully reliable, with only minor items to be adjusted for it to be 100% accurate. Revenues are slightly below budget primarily due to the lack of fundraising, which tends to occur later in the year. Costs are also below budget primarily due to lower expenses in building and grounds, religious education, and worship. Cash reserves at the end of January are at $47,000.

Prepare Your Budget Requests

Winter is half over, and we will soon begin our spring Stewardship Drive.

All committees should be preparing their Budget Requests for fiscal year 2016–2017.

Policy for our Facebook page

Moderating an online forum takes time and skill, especially on topics as deeply held as religion, and so to avoid overwhelming the members of our Communications Committee, our Facebook page is used only for sharing news. On 28 January 2016, the Board approved this policy:

“The UUCBG Facebook Page is intended to provide information about UU topics and events for both the general public and for the congregation. Our Facebook page is not used as a discussion forum, and all posts and comments that are intended to start a discussion (on any topic) are handled privately and not shared publicly. We encourage people to meet with others or join online forums to discuss topics of interest.”
